BOEHLING SCHEDULED TO WORK IN GAME TODAY

With Athletics at Boston, Griff Hopes to Make Up Ground Through Yanks.

BY J. ED GRILLO.

NEW YORK, June 2,-There is some Johnson, when he is opposed by times this spring, and Rankin has score times this spring, and Rankin has scored two shutouts over his celebrated name-sake, while only on one occasion, and that was in the game last Friday, has Walter gained a victory over him, Strangely enough, Rankin Johnson has to only been unable to beat any other team, but he has not even finished the games, being knocked out of the box in an inning or two. When he works against games, being knocked out of the box in an inning or two. When he works against the Nationals he looks to be about the best pitcher Boston can boast of.

Yesterday Rankin had all the breaks, having hard hit balls go right at one of the waiting fielders. On two occasions Speaker, after long chases, pulled down hits which would have made quite a difference in the result of the game had they struck safe territory, while Morgan's drive to Gardner, with Shanks on third in the fifth, would have scored him nine times out of ten, for the ball was hit hard, but right at Gardner, who made a blind stab and came up with the ball. Scott went over and picked up a drive from Foster's bat with one hand in the fourth, which had all the earmarks of a base hit, and, of course, in a game where there was so little scoring all the plays counted for a whole lot.

Harry Hooper undoubtedly is one of the greatest throwing outfielders in the game today. In the series at Boston Hooper made two perfect throws to the plate, either of which would have changed the result of a game had a less competent man had the ball to handle. Not only does he have a world of speed on the sphere when he cuts it loose, but it is thrown right to the spot. His heave to the plate yesterday, in which Shanka was doubled up, was a splendid effort.

In no game this season has Walter Johnson had more stuff than he displayed yesterday. It was the first time this spring that he struck out as many batters, and he seemed invincible at times. The hits of Cady and Hooper, which resulted in the scoring of the one rusthe Sox needed to win the game, were both more or less scratches. For the first time this season Johnson seemed to have all his former speed, and that, too, in view of the fact that he had only two days' rest. Johnson looked so good that it might be a tip to Griffith to work him oftener if he is expected to do his best work.

Should have been retired on strikes. Lewis' double and a walk to Speaker, given purposely, had put two on when Walter proceeded to fan Janvrin. He got two strikes and Yankees Split.

NEW YORK, June 2.—New York and Philadelphia broke even in a double-leader here verteader to fan Janvrin. He got two williams signaled for a curve. Walter seemed to have forgotten the sign, and should have been retired on strikes. Lewis' double and a walk to Speaker, given purposely, had put two on when Walter proceeded to fan Janvrin. New York passed the Athletics in the seventh of the first game, but the visitors tied the score in the eighth, and got two runs on Murphy's double, Oldring's sacrifice, Collins' triple, and Baker's single, enough to win the game, in the twelfth.

Inrst, filling the bases. Gardner, however, grounded to Morgan, retiring the side.

Whether the Nationals are to regain first place before they start on their western trip depends entirely on what sort of a showing they make while in New York, and just how good ball Boston will play against the Athletics during the bases. Gardner, however, filling the bases. twelfth.

The Yankees won the second game by bunching five hits and a pass for four runs in the sixth inning. McHale held he Athletics to four scattered hits. Stores:

Tigers Win Thrilling Game.

It is to be sincerely hoped that the It is to be sincerely hoped that the umpires' schedule will be such that Chill and Sheridan will not follow the Nationals to New York. This pair is doing miserable work, the one because of incompetency and the other because of his failing eyes. There is little chance for this pair of officials to give satisfaction, and Chill might even be charged with being a home umpire on his work in the series in Boston.

Milan's mistake in allowing himself to be caught napping, after he had singled in the ninth, robbed the Nationals of whatever chance there was to tie the score. Gandil was up, and "Chick" is apt to drive out a long hit most any time. He had taken one desperate swing at Johnson's offering, and fouled it, but there was a chance for something better had not Milan been caught off the bag. '8

Howard Shanks continued to do his share of the hitting. He went through the game with a clean batting record, when he advanced Gandil, who had singled, and he hit safely twice thereafter, though his double was strictly a scratch contribution to the base-hit column.

Walter Johnson's defeat was a scratch, the one run coming from a scratch hit by Hooper through the box which took a false bound just as McBride was about to field it. That one run, however, in view of the fact that the Nationals could not hit the Sox pitcher at opportune times, proved enough to decide the struggle. Line drives to the outfield, which ordinarily would have netted runs were grabbed by Speaker, a fact which did much to help Johnson of Boston out of holes. In the very first in-ning Foster drove a liner to right center, Six Clubs in West.
